train was run over the Providence and Worcester Railroad on that day, and Captain A. G. Thomas, freight agent, in attempting to fix a switch was run over and had both legs nearly cut off by the cars. He was conveyed to Providence and died on Monday morning. Capt. Thomas served in one of the Rhode Island regiments, in the late war, and was highly esteemed.

BELLINGHAM.

Mr. Eliab Wight has an elm tree in his door-yard that almost equals the "big trees" of California. The circumference is twenty-six feet near the ground, and the branches extend the distance of one hundred and ten feet. This tree was set out one hundred and fifty years ago. It is estimated that this tree, if made into fire wood, would make fifteen cords. This old patriarch of the forest is still hale and thrifty.
